FLA Clarifies Submissions of Applications Online

KINGSTON, Jamaica: The Firearm Licensing Authority (FLA) is clarifying that the online submission of applications and appeals for firearms is in a pilot phase and is currently unavailable to the public. This clarification follows an announcement by the Ministry of National Security on Friday, January 29, 2021 that the Authority began accepting applications online.

The online processing system is set to become available in the near future. In the meantime, the Authority is ensuring that before the online system goes live it is secured and will effectively facilitate the large number of applications received by the FLA.

New applicants are however assured that the FLA's current online tracking system is fully functional and allows applicants to monitor the progress of their applications via www.firearmlicensingauthority.com. Additionally, email updates are sent to applicants whenever there is progress with their application.
